The people of Northern Uganda, from 1986-2006 lived as captives under the reign of the LRA War, children were kidnapped and forced to become child soldiers. While atrocities ruled in Northern Uganda, the western world moved on and the information age exploded with innovative technologies. Uganda, like many other impoverished countries, had been left behind.

U-TOUCH is a non-profit organization that provides knowledge, education and communication to Uganda through Digital Library Centers. At these centers members of the community are able to take classes on technology, business, life skills and many more. U-TOUCH has grown incredibly in the last year and needs more technology than ever to fill its 6 centers. So we are asking for your help!
